Pastor's Greeting

On Sunday, November 27, Catholics in the United States will begin worshiping with the newly-translated texts of the third edition of the Roman Missal. As we get closer and closer to Nov. 27, archbishops on both sides of the Atlantic have offered words of wisdom on the new English translation of the Roman Missal. In a column for The Tidings archdiocesan newspaper, Los Angeles Archbishop Jose H. Gomez writes about the "wonderful gift" the revised Missal will be for the Church:

"Implementing this new translation means much more than simply memorizing new prayers. I really believe this new translation offers us a special moment of grace. It is a fact of life that anything we do over and over again can become routine, something we just do without paying too much attention. But we can never let the Mass become routine for us. We need to love the Eucharist! We need to live the holy Mass! Our Christian life, our whole life, must be centered in the Eucharist. That is why this new translation is such a wonderful gift. It gives us the opportunity for a new Eucharistic catechesis. It gives us the chance to reflect more deeply on the meaning of our worship — on what we do when we celebrate the Eucharist, and why."

Stewardship: "Therefore, stay awake, for you know neither the day nor the hour."
Mt 25:1-13

The parable of the five wise virgins who brought extra oil and the five unwise who did not seems to suggest that Jesus was a Boy Scout and was well aware of their motto, "Be Prepared." It is more likely that the Boy Scouts were aware of that parable, and others, and based their motto on the teaching of Jesus. People who live in areas prone to hurricanes, earthquakes, tornados, blizzards and other climate or geology related events know the value of being prepared. Jesus clearly meant that being prepared involved more than having an extra vial of oil for a lamp or the right supplies and equipment in the event of an emergency. He intended that we should live our life always prepared to grow in the understanding and use, to the best of our ability, of all the talents abilities and gifts God has given to each of us, for ourselves and for others. That is truly "being prepared," especially the part about using all that God has given us for others.
